Early Childhood Education Pathway Description

Preschool, kindergarten and elementary school teachers play a vital role in the development of children. They introduce children to math, language, science and social studies. They use games, music, artwork, films, books, computers and other tools to teach basic skills. Teachers design classroom presentations to meet students’ needs and abilities. They also work with students individually. They are responsible for planning, evaluating and assigning lesson plans; preparing, administering, grading tests and maintaining discipline.

Most early childhood education teachers work a 10-month school year with a 2-month vacation during the summer. Many teachers work more than 40 hours a week. Teachers often work with students from varied ethnic, racial and religious backgrounds. With growing minority populations in most parts of the U.S., teachers must work effectively with a diverse student population.

All 50 states require public school teachers to be licensed, have a bachelor’s degree, and have completed an approved teacher training program with a prescribed number of subject and education credits, as well as supervised practice teaching. Teachers must also continually update their skills so they can instruct and use the latest technology in the classroom.

Most states do not require licensure of teachers in private schools. Licensing requirements for preschool teachers also vary by state. Georgia Pre-K teachers must meet current credential requirements outlined in Georgia's Pre-K Providers’ Operating Guidelines and attend annual Pre-K training. Requirements for public preschool teachers are usually more stringent than those for private preschool teachers. Most job openings will result from replacing the large number of teachers expected to retire over the next several years. Job prospects should be better in inner cities and rural areas than in suburban districts.
