GA DL Immersion Schools in the News

Dual Language Immersion Programs grew by 214 % from 2012 to 2014 in GA. There are currently 14 public schools that offer either Chinese, French, German or Spanish mostly in the 50/50 model which means that students receive 50% of the day content instruction for Math, Science, Social Studies and Literacy in the target language. The newest programs opened this year in Gwinnett County. Here is a wonderful article about the French DLI program at Trip Elementary:

<http://www.gwinnettdaily.com/news/2014/dec/09/trip-elementary-kindergarteners-flourishing-in/>

The Chinese DLI program at Dutchtown Elementary in Henry County was also featured on 11Alive News with Donna Lowery:

The International Charter School of Atlanta is scheduled to open its doors in 2015/2016 with DLI programs in Chinese, French, German and Spanish. Interest in these programs is growing state-wide. Please contact Dr. Greg Barfield or Mrs. Michaela Claus-Nix if your school or district is interested in learning more about Dual Language Immersion programs. Contact info can be found at the end of this newsletter.

GaDoE signs new Memorandum of Understanding with Baden-Württemberg, Germany on December 1, 2014!

Campbell HS Wins Greenopoly Competition

German Consul General Christoph Sander proudly presented Campbell HS with a $6,000 check for winning 1st prize ($3,000), 2nd prize ($2,000), and 3rd prize ($1,000) on December 8, 2014. This amazing result was due to the dedication, creativity and knowledge that the school's teams had applied to their "Greenopoly" board game creations. Please read the full article at:

GA Schools Celebrate Fall of the Berlin Wall

On November 9, 1989 the Berlin Wall fell. Many Georgia schools celebrated the 25th anniversary in creative ways.

German Teacher Jonas Strecker's students at South Forsyth High School built a wall in cooperation with Art and Social Studies and had an official event to tear it down:

German Teacher Patrick Wallace at Whitewater High School also erected a wall with students in the cafeteria and encouraged students from the entire school to write messages about what freedom means to them. They also had a school-wide poster competition, a lecture from a visiting professor and upper level German students wrote persuasive essays on which freedoms are most important and why.

Looking for a Partner School?

The GaDoE is fortunate to have several Memoranda of Understanding with partner states and countries. The purpose is to promote and increase collaboration between Georgia's educational institutions and those of the partner state or country. Schools interested in partnering with a school in one of our MoU partners' regions should contact the WL Program Specialists (contact info below) at the GaDoE. Current MoUs have been negotiated with France, Germany and Korea. Schools determine the scope of the partnerships which may include collaboration on projects, Skype or email/pen pal partnerships or exchanges. There are also opportunities to collaborate specifically with CTAE and STEM schools.
