OFFICE OF STATE ADMINISTRATIVE HEARINGS

For Petitioners:

Petitioner ¹ mother of student

For Respondent:

Brian Dennison, Esq.

FINAL DECISION

I. Introduction

Petitioners and filed a due process complaint pursuant to the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act ("IDEA"). The Petitioners allege that Respondent Savannah-Chatham County Public School System (the "District" or "SCCPSS") violated the IDEA by denying a free appropriate public education ("FAPE"). The due process hearing was held on February 2, 2023, in Hinesville, Georgia. The record remained open until March 16, 2023, to allow the parties an opportunity to review the transcript and submit proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law.

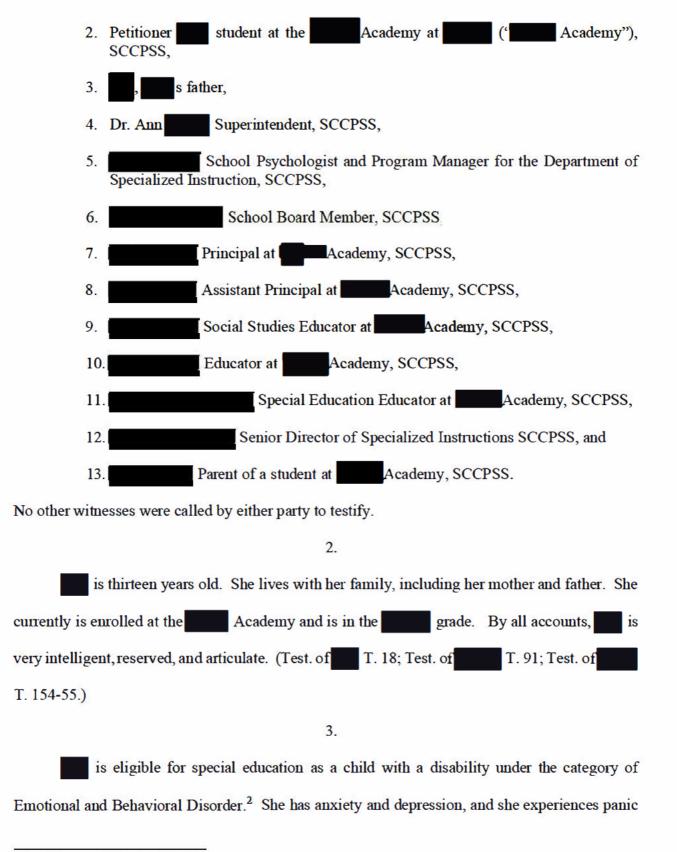

II. FINDINGS OF FACT

The Petitioners called thirteen witnesses:

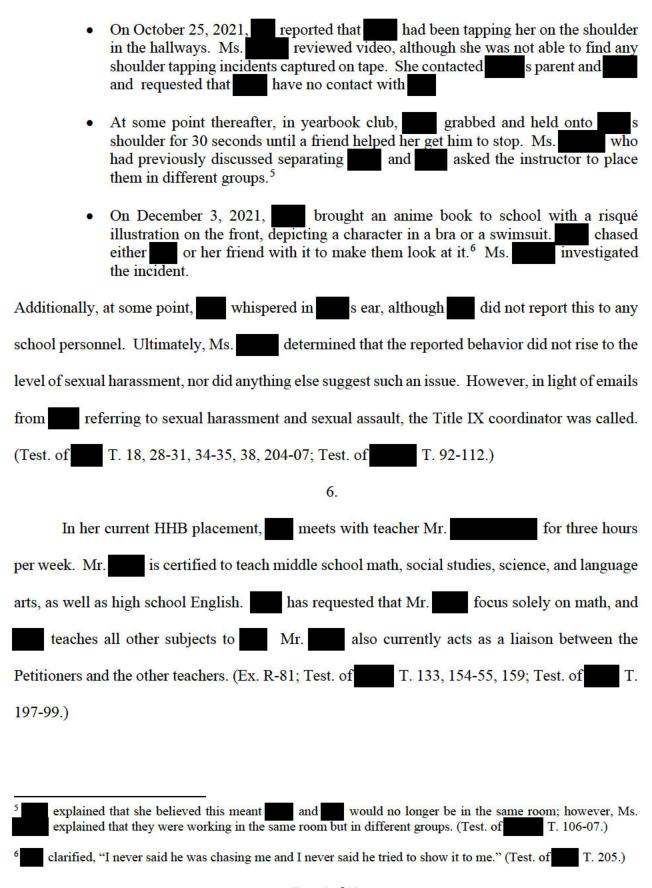

1. Petitioner s mother,

¹ Although Petitioner appeared pro se, she is a trained and competent former lawyer.

² Although testified that the eligibility category is Other Health Impairment (T. 189), the IEP indicates that it is Emotional and Behavioral Disorder (Ex. P-44, R-70). The Georgia Department of Education's definition for numerous instances of email communications and telephone calls between and personnel at Academy and within the District. Superintendent and Mr. of the School Board also have received communications from Many of the communications in evidence are professional and polite, containing legitimate questions and concerns raised by and many of them show a willingness of the parties to work together. Other communications evince increasing exasperation on spart, and certain of the communications from include offensive and intimidating language. As a result of these types of communications, the relationship between the parties has become strained.

Little to no evidence was presented regarding scurrent educational progress. Mr. testified that has experienced some learning loss in math and had been working on some sixth grade assignments along with seventh grade assignments. Much of the evidence regarding her achievement in other subjects focused on confusion over what assignments were due and where or how the information was posted electronically. Another consistent issue is whether "skeleton notes" had been provided, pursuant to the IEP. (Ex. P-23, P-32, P-35; Test. of

The complaint that initiated this due process hearing includes the same document that was filed in Case Number 23-339840, entitled "SPED Facts for Formal Complaint II." (Ex. R-66, R-78.)

An example of one of the more offensive emails is Exhibit P-15, which herself submitted into evidence in this case. In the email, which was sent on November 18, 2021, from to twelve recipients at the District, called the recipients "dumb other kers" and stated, "Anyone with an educational license, welcome to the

The IEP currently in place was implemented on March 16, 2022, and ended on March 15, 2023. Notes indicate that was to be evaluated for ADHD and PTSD "in the near future" and that the results would be provided to the school. The family was "trying to determine the best type of therapy" for and requested that the District provide a psychologist to address school-related anxiety. Ultimately, the services provided through an organization called were declined by (Ex. R-70, R-80, R-83; Test. of T. 168-70.)

The Court has carefully reviewed the initiating documents for this case (specifically, the "SPED Facts for Formal Complaint II") and "additional information," filed in this tribunal on December 20, 2022. The undersigned has endeavored to identify all relevant issues raised by the Petitioners, even if they were not highlighted by the Petitioners in the outline required by the Court's Prehearing Order issued on January 18, 2023. Petitioners identify accommodations in the IEP that are not being followed, including those related to communication, provision of skeleton notes and/or study guides, and explanation of directions and expectations of assignments. They allege that the District has failed to (1) have all appropriate personnel on the IEP team (because a general education teacher was not included, although no dates are provided as to when this occurred), (2) consider appropriate evaluative data for and (3) timely implement the IEP. They state generally that was denied meaningful participation in the IEP process because the ⁹ Relatedly, to the extent that the Petitioners raised an issue for the first time in their outline, the issue has been disregarded. This is, in part, the subject of the Respondent District's Motion to Exclude Irrelevant Claims and Fact Patterns from the Court's Consideration in this Case. Petitioners did not file a response to this Motion. The Motion hereby is GRANTED.

IEP had been predetermined. Finally, also states that "is being assessed for ADHD, PTSD, and now high functioning 'spectrum' as suggested by her private psychological services provider." As set forth in the Findings of Fact, evidence was presented relating to communication and implementation of the IEP. In addition, Mr. testified that he was present at the November 3, 2022, IEP meeting in the capacity of a general education teacher. The Court has carefully reviewed the record to glean any evidence related to the remaining allegations. The Court has identified no evidence presented concerning predetermination or further evaluations.

III. CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

This case is governed by the enabling act for the IDEA found at 20 U.S.C. § 1400, et seq.; its implementing federal regulations, 34 C.F.R. § 300.01, et seq.; and the Rules of the Georgia Department of Education, Ga. Comp. R. & Regs. 160-4-7-.01, et seq. Procedures for the conduct of the administrative hearing are found in the Georgia Administrative Procedures Act, O.C.G.A. § 50-13-1, et seq., and the rules of the Office of State Administrative Hearings found at Ga. Comp. R. & Regs. 616-1-1, et seq.

The IDEA enables a parent to bring challenges to the "identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child, or the provision of a free appropriate education to [the] child" by filing a due process complaint. 20 U.S.C. § 1415(b)(6)(A); see also Schaffer v. Weast, 546 U.S. 49, 53-54(2005). In this case, the Petitioners bear the burden of proof and must produce sufficient evidence to support the allegations raised in the Complaint. Schaffer, 546 U.S. at 62; see also Ga. Comp. R. & Regs. 160-4-7-.12(3)(n) ("The party seeking relief shall bear the burden of persuasion with the evidence at the administrative hearing."). The standard of proof is a preponderance of the evidence. Ga. Comp. R. & Regs. 616-1-2-.21(4).

Claims brought under the IDEA are subject to a two-year statute of limitations. 20 U.S.C. § 1415(f)(3)(C); 34 C.F.R. § 300.507(a)(2).

This Court's review is limited to the issues the Petitioners presented in their Complaint and/or Amended Complaint. 20 U.S.C. § 1415(f)(3)(B); 34 C.F.R. § 300.511(d); Ga. Comp. R. & Regs. 160-4-7-.12(3)(j); see also B.P. v. New York City Dep't of Educ., 841 F. Supp. 2d 605, 611 (E.D.N.Y. 2012). A petitioner who files a due process complaint may raise no other issues at the hearing unless the opposing party agrees. 20 U.S.C. § 1415(f)(3)(B); 34 C.F.R. § 300.511(d).

The goals of the IDEA are "to ensure that all children with disabilities have available to them a free appropriate public education [FAPE] that emphasizes special education and related services designed to meet their unique needs" and "to ensure that the rights of children with disabilities and parents of such children are protected." 20 U.S.C. § 1400(d)(1)(A)-(B); see also J.N. v. Jefferson Cnty. Bd. of Educ., 12 F.4th 1355, 1362 (11th Cir. 2021). Related services include the following:

transportation¹¹, and such developmental, corrective, and other supportive services (including speech-language pathology and . . . physical and occupational therapy . . .) as may be required to assist a child with a disability to benefit from special education, and includes the early identification and assessment of disabling conditions in children.

20 U.S.C. § 1401(26)(A). In addition, the IDEA includes a directive that disabled children be placed in the "least restrictive environment" or "LRE." Greer v. Rome City Sch. Dist., 950 F.2d 688, 695 (11th Cir. 1991), withdrawn, 956 F.2d 1025 (11th Cir. 1992), reinstated in part, 967 F.2d 470 (11th Cir. 1992). Under IDEA, students with disabilities should be educated with children who are not disabled "to the maximum extent possible," and should be removed from the regular educational environment only "when the nature or severity of the disability of a child is such that education in regular classes with the use of supplementary aids and services cannot be achieved satisfactorily." 20 U.S.C. § 1412(a)(5)(A).

The rules of the Georgia Department of Education set forth requirements related to LRE and HHB instruction. HHB is the most restrictive placement on the continuum of alternative placements. See Ga. Comp. R. & Regs. 160-4-7-.07(3)(d).

Hospital/homebound instruction program (HHB) is used for students with disabilities who are placed in a special education program and have a medically diagnosed condition that will significantly interfere with their education and requires them to be restricted to their home or a hospital for a period of time. The LEA shall provide hospital/homebound instruction to students with disabilities, under the requirements found in Georgia rule 160-4-2-.31 Hospital Homebound Services.

Ga. Comp. R. & Regs. 160-4-7-.07(3)(d)(6). Rule 31 provides extensive and detailed requirements for an HHB placement. One such requirement addresses instruction:

HHB instruction shall be provided by a certified teacher, who is selected by the LEA in which the student is enrolled. Students eligible for services under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) shall be served by appropriately certified personnel.

Ga. Comp. R. & Regs. 160-4-2-.31(4)(a). Additionally, "Although the local school team or IEP team shall determine the number of hours necessary to meet the instructional needs of the student, the student must receive at a minimum three hours of HHB instruction per school week to be considered present by the school." Ga. Comp. R. & Regs. 160-4-2-.31(4)(c).

The IDEA requirement to provide FAPE is satisfied by providing personalized instruction with sufficient support services to permit the child to benefit educationally from that instruction. Bd. of Educ. of the Hendrick Hudson Cent. Sch. Dist., Westchester Co., et al. v. Rowley, 458 U.S. 176, 189 (1982); see also W.C. v. Cobb Cnty. Sch. Dist., 407 F. Supp. 2d 1351, 1359 (N.D. Ga. 2005). In Rowley, the U.S. Supreme Court developed a two-part test for determining whether FAPE has been provided. Rowley, 458 U.S. at 206. The first inquiry is whether the school district complied with the procedures set forth in the IDEA. Id. The second inquiry is whether the IEP developed through these procedures is "reasonably calculated to enable the child to receive educational benefits." Id. at 206-07.

Under the first prong of the Rowley test, a procedural violation is not a per se denial of FAPE. Weiss by and Through Weiss v. School Bd., 141 F.3d 990, 996 (11th Cir. 1998). This Court is authorized to find that the Petitioners were deprived of FAPE only if the procedural inadequacies

- (I) impeded the child's right to a free appropriate public education;
- (II) significantly impeded the parents' opportunity to participate in the decisionmaking process regarding the provision of a free appropriate public education to the parents' child; or
- (III) caused a deprivation of educational benefits.

20 U.S.C. § 1415(f)(3)(E)(ii); see also 34 C.F.R. § 300.513(a)(2).

Important procedural rights for the student and parents include the right to give informed consent and the right to participate in the decision-making process. See 20 U.S.C. § 1415(b), (f);

34 C.F.R. § 300.322. Parents also have the right to be members of "any group that makes decisions on the educational placement of their child." 20 U.S.C. § 1414(e). In Weiss, the Court held that where a family has "full and effective participation in the IEP process," the purpose of the procedural requirements is not thwarted. Weiss, 141 F.3d at 996.

Regarding the second prong of the Rowley inquiry, the U.S. Supreme Court provided the following clarification in 2017: "To meet its substantive obligation under the IDEA, a school must offer an IEP reasonably calculated to enable a child to make progress appropriate in light of the child's circumstances." Endrew F. v. Douglas Cnty. Sch. Dist. RE-1, 137 S. Ct. 988, 999 (2017). Endrew F. does not require that an IEP bring the child to grade-level achievement; if it is not reasonable to expect a child to achieve grade-level advancement, then his IEP need not aim for such. Id. at 1000-01. Nevertheless, "his educational program must be appropriately ambitious in light of his circumstances." Id. at 1000. Importantly, the Court in Endrew F. noted that its lack of clarity in defining what exactly "appropriate' progress will look like" is not an excuse for reviewing courts "to substitute their own notions of sound educational policy for those of the school authorities which they review." Id. at 1001 (quoting Rowley, 458 U.S. at 206).

Also under the second prong of the Rowley test, a school district is not required to provide an education that will "maximize" a student's potential. Instead, the IDEA mandates only "an education that is specifically designed to meet the child's unique needs, supported by services that will permit him to benefit from the instruction." Loren F. v. Atlanta Indep. Sch. Sys., 349 F.3d 1309, 1312 n.1 (11th Cir. 2003) (quotation and citations omitted); see also JSK v. Hendry Cnty. Sch. Bd., 941 F.2d 1563, 1573 (11th Cir. 1991); Doe v. Ala. State Dep't of Educ., 915 F.2d 651, 655 (11th Cir. 1990). However, as Endrew F. made clear, this standard is "more demanding than the 'merely more than de minimis' test." Endrew F., 137 S. Ct. at 1000.

Contrary to the Petitioners' assertions, the evidence presented does not support a finding that the District violated the IDEA. The Petitioners have not shown that the IEP as developed and amended was not "reasonably calculated to enable to receive educational benefits." See 20 U.S.C. § 1415(f)(3)(E)(ii). Nor was the evidence sufficient to prove a violation of the IDEA as far as implementation of the IEP. See L.J. v. Sch. Bd., 927 F. 3d 1203, 1207 (holding that a material deviation from the content of an IEP violates the IDEA). At the same time, the status quo is not tenable. The parties must communicate with each other respectfully and openly. Additionally, although neither party raised the issue, the Court is concerned that the current HHB arrangement, acting as the instructor for every subject other than math, is outside the parameters of appropriate HHB services. Even if this arrangement was aware that HHB instruction is not the same as home schooling. HHB instruction is to be conducted by a certified teacher. Should this placement continue to be the appropriate LRE for parties must ensure that appropriate instruction occurs. Further, the Court is without information to understand s current evaluations or diagnoses. Setting aside the issue of missed assignments, is learning the material? Would different or additional services be appropriate? The inordinate focus in this case on the complaints about student (which were fully investigated and addressed) and the communication challenges between the parties, along with the desire of the Petitioners to leave Academy for a private school, as yet undetermined, have eclipsed these important issues. Relatedly, the Court is without information to determine whether placement in a private school or boarding school is an appropriate or feasible plan.

IV. DECISION

The Petitioners have failed to prove, by a preponderance, that the Respondent violated the IDEA. In accordance with the foregoing Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law, the Petitioners' request for relief under the IDEA is hereby DENIED. However, as discussed above, the Petitioners suggest that certain new evaluations of have occurred. Moreover, the March 2023 annual review of the IEP and the impending end date for HHB call for a renewed consideration of placement. Accordingly, the Respondent is hereby ORDERED to commence an IEP meeting to consider the Petitioners' recent evaluations and discuss placement, among any other relevant matters. This meeting shall be commended within 30 calendar days of the date of this Decision. All other requested relief not specifically granted above is hereby denied.

SO ORDERED, this 12th day of April, 2023.
