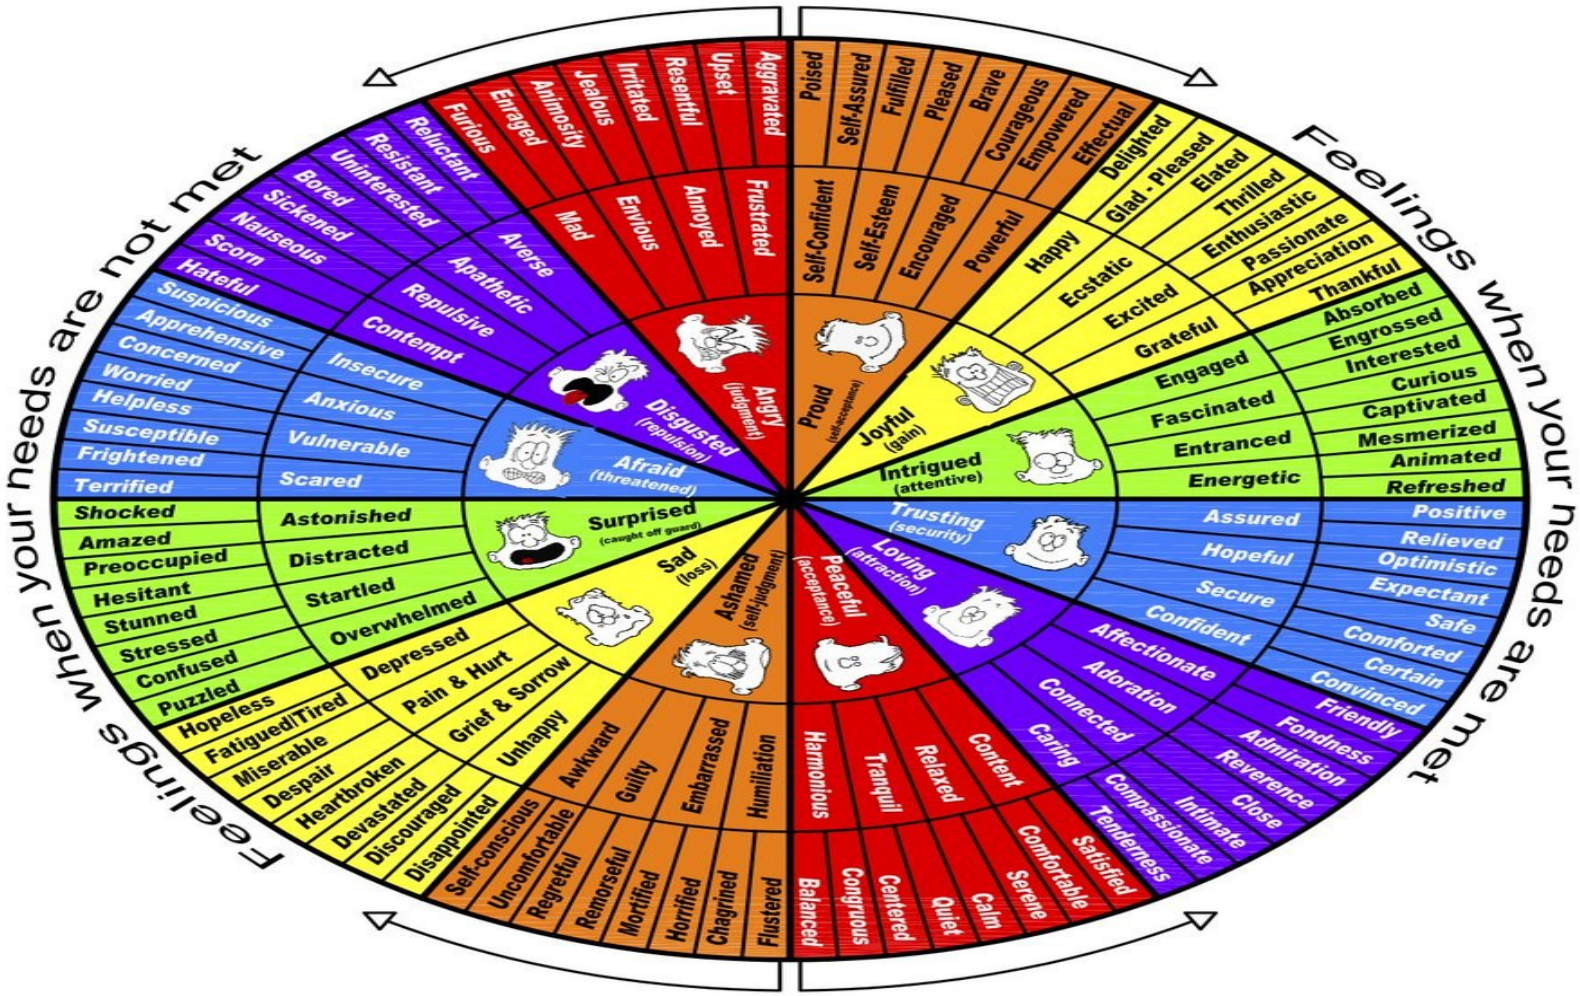
Feelings Wheel



Based on Nonviolent Communication by Marshall Rosenberg, Ph.D. May be duplicated for personal use and for teaching Nonviolent Communication.
Graphics and organization of feelings and needs wheels by Bret Stein. artisantf@hotmail.com Revised 1/1/11

Feelings are internal emotions. Words mistaken for emotions, but that are actually thoughts in the form of evaluations and judgments of others, are any words that follow "I feel like ... " or "I feel that ..." or "I feel as if ... " or "I feel you ...", such as:

Abandoned	Attacked	Abused	Betrayed	Blamed	Bullied	Cheated
Coerced	Criticized	Dismissed	Disrespected	Excluded	Ignored	Intimidated
Insulted	Let Down	Manipulated	Misunderstood	Neglected	Put down	Rejected
Unappreciated	Unloved	Unheard	Unwanted	Used	Violated	Wronged

Terrence Wilson & Paula Johnson

Terrence Wilson and Paula Johnson are from the Intercultural Development Research Association (IDRA). Terrence formerly worked with Georgia Appleseed and has been a great friend to GaPBIS over the years. The IDRA is funded by a grant from the U.S. Department of Education to provide coaching, professional learning, and capacity building technical assistance to schools and districts on equity. "The IDRA EAC-South builds bridges among administrators, teachers, parents, students and community members so that all stakeholders can find that common higher ground where all students will benefit inclusive of race, gender, national origin or religion."
