

Stronger Together: PBIS and Family Engagement

Description:

Families are important members of our school communities. When schools and families work together toward their common goal of helping all children to be successful, it is much more likely to happen. Research shows that family engagement in a child's school experience promotes academic success, decreases behavioral challenges and increases commitment to learning. Within the PBIS framework, schools and families can partner together to create a predictable and positive learning environment in which students can thrive at school, and at home. Come learn how PBIS and Family Engagement are Stronger Together by increasing the efficiency, effectiveness, relevance and sustainability of PBIS by supporting students across settings!
