

1,2,3 (One Sentence, Three Quotes)

Article: World leaders, activists seek end to modern slave auctions in Libya

Slavery has existed since the beginning of time and cannot continue to be ignored.

“The international community cannot continue to turn a blind eye to the unimaginable horrors endured by migrants in Libya,” U.N. rights chief Zeid Ra’ad Al Hussein said. (20)

“Faced with a crime against humanity you don’t condemn it, you act.” (36)

“Aid workers, human rights groups and analysts say they had been shouting until they were blue in the face. They were trying to spread the word about rape, torture and forced work for thousands of black Africans in the war-torn North African country.” (3)